

| Subscription rates | 1 year | 2 years |
|---------------------------|--------|---------|
| Individual rate (1) | €130 | €240 |
| Student rate (1) | €60 | €112 |
| Institutional rate (1)(2) | €325 | €630 |

1- For Solidarity subscription rates see the preceding page.
2- Commercial companies and institutions.

- Yes, I would like to subscribe to *Prescrire International
- Please send me a free sample issue of the French journal *Prescrire

Title: Mr Ms

Last Name:

First Name:

Address (1):

.....

Postal code: City:

Country:

Tel:

Fax:

E-Mail (must be provided):

.....

Occupation:

working in the community, hospital, university, industry, other (please circle)

1- Give the format of the address as it is used in your country.

I enclose a cheque for €

I pay € by Credit card

VISA

EUROCARD/MASTERCARD

AMERICAN EXPRESS

Card number:

Expiry date:

Signature:

Postage and handling charges are included in the quoted prices. Subscribers outside the European Union who are subject to value added tax (VAT) may pay the ex-tax cost: divide the full cost by 1.021. EU subscribers subject to VAT must provide us with their VAT code number.

Send your order with payment to:

Prescrire International

83 bd Voltaire - 75558 PARIS CEDEX 11 - FRANCE

Fax: + 33 1 49237648

e-mail: international@prescrire.org

website: english.prescrire.org

No grants.
No advertising.
No conflicts of interest.

Inside this issue, you'll find the annual financial report of Association Mieux Prescrire (AMP), the French non-profit that publishes Prescrire and Prescrire International. Every spring, AMP publishes its accounts in full. This allows readers to see exactly where our money goes and especially where it comes from.

AMP is a non-profit continuing-education organisation. All of AMP's activities are 100% funded by subscribers.

No grants

Prescrire does not depend on any financial or other support from governmental or other institutions. Prescrire's editors enjoy complete freedom to criticise the practices, policies and prejudices of regulatory agencies and other authorities, be they French, European or international. This includes:

- Detailed analyses of the guidelines published by France's national health authority, exposing incomplete information, conflicts of interest and other breaches of the public trust;
- Several well-documented complaints against the European Medicines Agency's repeated refusals to comply with Prescrire's requests for information on adverse effects;
- Criticism of the World Health Organization and other international bodies for their flawed recommendations, conflicts of interest and institutional biases.

No advertising

Prescrire accepts no advertising and does not depend in any way, shape or form on support from industry. Prescrire does not publish sponsored sections or supplements. Prescrire does not offer bulk subscriptions paid for by pharmaceutical companies. We do not make money on reprints. Prescrire and its editors do not accept fees, gifts, invitations, travel or other perks from industry. Hence Prescrire is free to publish frank, fair appraisals of products as well as policies.

No conflicts of interest

Every text published in Prescrire (with a very few exceptions, such as readers' letters, which are clearly identified as such) is produced entirely by Prescrire's Editorial Staff. And every year, each and every member of Prescrire's Editorial Staff is required to sign a declaration of absence of conflicts of interests. The members and managers of Association Mieux Prescrire sign the same declaration. This ensures that Prescrire and Prescrire International remain entirely free of undue influence.

©Prescrire

For details see this issue page 116-117 and english.prescrire.org > About

Prescrire